"Giving back all the good that has been so freely given to us."

~Adrienne W.

Adrienne is a single mother to a 3 ½-year-old little boy named Braxton. Braxton loves music, dancing, dinosaurs, school, and being around family and friends. She expressed how extremely close her and Braxton's relationship is. She is currently employed at Greater Cincinnati Behavioral Health Services as a Transitional Support specialist. She states "for a couple of years, we have had unstable housing and have moved around a lot". Her friend who is a Habitat homeowner referred her to apply for a Habitat home. She thought Adrienne would be a great candidate and understood that Adrienne needed housing.

With a new stable home, she believes it can create a safe place, a place of belonging, a home where she can raise her son as a respectful, independent, and intelligent man. She hopes that this new home will allow her to continue to grow in her career, education, health (mentally and physically), and spiritually to be the best mother and woman she can be.
